

A Partisans Daughter

Chris is in his forties: bored, lonely, trapped in a loveless, sexless marriage. Hes a stranger to the 1970s youth culture of London, a stranger to himself on the night he invites a prostitute into his car. Roza is Yugoslavian, recently moved to London. Shes in her twenties, but has already lived a life filled with danger, misadventure, romance, and tragedy. And though shes not a prostitute, when shes propositioned by Chris, she gets into his car anyway. Over the next few months Roza tells Chris the stories of her past. Shes a fast-talking Scheherazade, saving her own life by telling it to Chris. And he takes in her tales as if they were oxygen in an otherwise airless world. But is Roza telling the truth? Does it even matter?
