

Seven Short Stories

Dimensions (The cat 1): The story of a cat traveling between time and space from one generation to another. One owner is evil one is good. In his collar the cat holds the key to millions. Providence works it out but not to everyones satisfaction.

Private Eye (The perfect camera): A brilliant private detectives, Felix Tripp, solves the robberies that took place in the residences of the four wealthiest citizens in Tinyard, Ohio. Baffled police found no clues. Hidden alarms, detection devices, surveillance camera and complicated safe combinations could not deter the thief until Felix found the common denominator.

Time is Money: Doctor J.J. McCabe has discovered a time machine. Hewitt G. Armstrong takes on the challenge to travel back to the year 1988. He is promised fame and fortune when he returns. Things change when he goes back in time. At this point the real adventure begins. Murder on Krill Island: Billionaire Dexter Krill has died. Eight potential heirs, during a blustery snowstorm, had been invited to his Island to share in the legacy. Someone had set up a bobby trap killing one of the heirs. The storm deterred any help from the mainland police. Felix Tripp was put in charge until the police could arrive. A pair of glasses, multicolored mosaic tiles and a document left to be deciphered were his only clues.

Bloodline: A widow struggles to the top but faces and conquers many hazards along the way.

Runt of the Litter: A story about the runt of a litter and how his mother found him a good home.

Send in The Clones: A fun fast moving science fiction tale about a small town with a big problem. Sean Delaney, an ethical football coach, who also teaches science, finds himself dealing with Aliens, living inside a UFO, who created the problem.
