

Everyone agrees with TOM!... and they want some of what TOM has: Happiness, Success, Great Relationships

TOM is one of those intriguing sorts of guys - we all know and envy one - who seems to always get what he wants. He's Trusting and trustworthy, has clear Objectives and is always brimming with Motivation. Not only that, the people around TOM seem to Trust him, they understand his and their own Objectives and are always Motivated to work with him on whatever he is currently up to. How is it that these three personal attributes work so well for him? TOM explains the basic principles of how to get people, including yourself, to get things done and still have a good time. When you get right down to it, isn't that what we mean when we say we're having a good life - we're getting things done and having a good time? In the story, TOM sets off to climb a mountain and learns something from every adventure along the way. On his return he becomes a life coach and eventually runs into BJ, one of the characters from the story. TOM coaches BJ (and the reader) on how to turn bad days into good days by using the principles he learned on his mountain journey. The book concludes with BJ telling TOM the story of his new good day and how he has applied everything he has learned. For such a huge topic, why is it such a small book? ...because it really is very simple. This book has been structured using the very latest in En-Lightning Learning (accelerated learning) techniques - techniques that not only make learning lightning fast, illuminating and effective, but also more enjoyable and easy for the human mind to absorb and act on. This book is about achieving results and enjoying the journey.
