

Gratitude and Hope: Doing Theology at Pilgrim Place (Volume 10)

In our tenth year the Doing Theology group has continued to range over a variety of subjects. We considered Pilgrim Place at 100; we thought about how long we want to live; we meditated over poetic and religious themes. We looked at Jesus in our lives and in cinema. We examined evolving consciousness, breath and breathing space, ancient wisdom, and our own hearts amazements. We shared in the experience of teaching Christian ethics in Post-Soviet Europe, dimensions of settler colonialism and its impact on Native American life, and the cultural differences in Japanese shame and American guilt. Enriching each other we shared topics of interest. From the Introduction to Volume 10, 2014-2015, of the Doing Theology at Pilgrim Place series. Essays by residents of Pilgrim Place who have served overseas and in pastorates, social change positions, seminary and college professors and who have heard Gods call and replied, Yes.
