

Lebor na hUidre: Codices Hibernenses Eximii I

Lebor na hUidre: Codices Hibernenses Eximii I is the first in a series of books dedicated to exploring some of the major manuscripts in the Royal Irish Academys collection. Lebor na hUidre (LU) is the oldest manuscript in the collection that is written entirely in the Irish language. This book represents the proceedings of a conference organized by the library of the Academy and Maynooth University to mark the centenary of one of the most important studies on LU: R.I. Bests Notes on the Script of Lebor na hUidre, published in the Academys journal Eriu in 1912. Speakers at the conference undertook a fresh examination of the history, palaeography, language, and background of LU. This resulting book - with its commentary presented in English text - contains much scholarship that is new, and it represents a major landmark in the study of one of the Academys greatest treasures.
