

Mountain Tasting: Haiku and Journals of Santoka Taneda (Companions for the Journey)

Mountain Tasting gathers together a wide cross section of haiku with a selection of the diaries of the wandering Japanese poet Santoka (1882-1940). Santoka lived his life in the Zen hermit poetic tradition of Japan that includes Matsuo Basho, Ryokan, and Saigyō Hoshi. The open road was to become both his home and monastery. As he said, Days I don't enjoy: Any day I don't walk, drink sake, and compose haiku. John Stevens is the author or translator of over twenty books on Buddhism, Zen, Aikido, and Asian culture. His books include Lotus Moon: Poems of Rengetsu and Wild Ways: Poems of Ikkyū.
