

The Marks of Gods Children (Classics of Reformed Spirituality)

Jean Taffin is often called the father of the Dutch Second Reformation. He was a central figure in the development of Reformed doctrine and believed that true doctrine, faithful living, and healthy church and civic life were interrelated. First published in 1585, The Marks of Gods Children offered comfort and encouragement to the people of sixteenth-century Europe who were weary from the spiritual warfare waged during the Reformation and Counter-Reformation. Based on Reformed principles, this spiritual reflection provides an intelligent understanding of the marks or proofs of Gods wonderful grace and salvation. Table of Contents:

1. Blessedness - Concerning the Great and Incomprehensible Blessedness of Eternal Life Promised to Gods Children
2. Assurance - How We Know that We are Children of God
3. Appropriating the Marks - How Every Church Member Should Appropriate These Distinguishing Marks to Be Assured of His Adoption and Salvation
4. Small, Weak Marks - Although the Distinguishing Marks of Our Adoption Are Small and Weak, We May and Should Nevertheless Be Assured That We are Children of God
5. Apostasy and Doubt - The Apostasy and Falling Away of Some who Once Confessed the True Religion may not Cause us to Doubt Either Doctrine or our Status as Gods Children
6. Sufferings and the Marks - Sufferings Should not Cause us to Doubt our Adoption but serve Rather to Strengthen Us
7. Suffering Prophesied - The Sufferings We Experience Have Been Prophesied and Therefore Should Strengthen Us in the Assurance of Our Adoption as Gods Children
8. Oppressed but Loved - The Children of God Have Always Been Oppressed, Yet They are Continually Loved by Him
9. Fruits as Evidence - The Sufferings so Universal among Adams Children are, with Regards to Their Precious Fruits, the Evidences for Gods Children of Their Adoption and for Them 10. Suffering and Fruit - Concerning Suffering in the Name of Christ and Its Fruit 11. The Fruit of Persecution - Other Fruit of the Persecutions We Suffer for the Name of Jesus Christ 12. Perseverance in Persecution - An Admonition to Persevere Steadfastly in the Truth of the Gospel in Times of Persecution 13. Holy Meditations and Prayers Prayers Drawn from Pauls Epistles Thoughts Drawn from St. Augustine
