

The Taciturn Man: And Other Tales of Australia (Modern Voices)

An immigrants tale of an untamed country Alexander Gibson, my father, was a young Englishman who with his brother settled in Australia in the 1920s. The brothers each married one of the Solomon sisters just prior to the Great Depression. The Taciturn Man begins just after the Second World War when Alexander took up a rough bush sheep-grazing block in isolation among the tall trees of New England (New South Wales). I was born in 1937, and so I was just three years old when my father went to war, and age eight when he returned. Fortunately, by then I was old enough to absorb much of the material for this collection which I hope you will now enjoy. Praise for The Taciturn Man A delightful memoir with all the emotions of life itself-seriousness, humor, joy and sadness and more. The authors observations of people and lively writing style make it a great bedside book to be savored, rather than hurried through. --Deborah K. Frontiera, author of Fighting CPS: Guilty Until Proven Innocent of Child Protective Services Charges The Taciturn Man is a trip through Australias countryside that feels like a nostalgic summer breeze as Gibsons personal narrative reveals its beauty, culture, and history through his own experiences and unique voice. --Susan Violante, author of Innocent War: Behind an Immigrants Past About the Author Geoffrey Gibson grew up in rural Australia in the 1940s, earned his keep as a jackeroo (farmhand), had a brief stint in the Army, followed by thirty years as a suburban real estate agent in Sydney. He has dabbled in politics, and in retirement now spends his time writing, surfing and mucking about with friends on the states South coast.
